I. RATIONALE

In Indonesia, including Yogyakarta economics is not popular/interesting subject for most students. Students have opinion that economics is just a theory, abstract, and unreal. This opinion lead student become passive, reluctant, and apathetic when they are attending economics class. Because of that condition the achievement of senior high school students in economics is not good enough. The average score of national examination in economics is low, indeed too low in certain area. One of factors influencing above phenomenon is the way economics teachers in Indonesia teach their class and deliver the topics. Most teachers in Indonesia is still rely on traditional approach (direct instruction) to teach class. If this traditional teaching method is used continuously without any variation of other approaches (more interesting teaching method), it will make students are not interested in economics. The result of it is low motivation of student to study economics, so that students do not fully understand economic concept.

Based on above description it is necessary to equip economics teachers with “non-traditional” teaching method through workshop on economic education. We believe that this activity will be useful for the economic education development in Yogyakarta which will positively impact to Economics teachers from 5 regencies and their students. And also, we strongly believe that this step will also valuable for NCEE programs in gaining a better education of economic through the world.

II. PROJECT OBJECTIVES

- a 30 economics teachers from 5 regencies in Yogyakarta Province will be trained to incorporate economics into their classroom instruction.
- b Increasing the knowledge of economics teachers in Yogyakarta Province with new implementation models of economic education.
- c Increasing and connecting the network among workshop participants that is Yogyakarta Economic Education Society - UNY and MGMP and National Educations at Province and Regency levels.
- d Sharing data and information for improving the quality of economic education at Senior high School level.

- e Encouraging an understanding and cooperation among three key parties : national education at Province and Regency levels; Economic Teachers Organizations, and YEES – UNY.

III. ACTIVITIES

The purpose of introductory workshop in economic education is to increase the knowledge of the teachers in teaching and learning process and methods.

- a Introducing the new model of teaching and learning process in economic education by giving some examples of economic teaching and learning in applicative models. The model will provide a real model in class that will impact on reality class and to show that economic education is not the boring and scarring lessons. Economic is an applicative and interactive lessons. .
- b Improving the teacher's orientation whereas the teaching is not teachers oriented anymore but students oriented. Basically, the principle in learning of economic is pleased to look at life reality of society's economy.
- c Increasing the competency of the teachers whereas impacted to the life skills of students.

Participants Recruitment Mechanism

Initially this alumni project workshop would be dedicated for economics teacher in Daerah Istimewa Yogyakarta (DIY) Province only. But, when YEES socialized this program many economics teacher from surrounding DIY insisted to join the workshop. Then YEES decided to make a bit change in participant criteria and recruitment mechanism. In order to reach more economics teacher in DIY and surrounding areas we announce the program directly and indirectly to economics teachers. Directly we send information and workshop leaflets to head of Economics Teacher Association in DIY, Bantul, Sleman, Kulon Progo, Yogyakarta, and Gunung Kidul, High School, Islamic High School School, and Vocational School Headmasters in DIY and surrounding areas, economics teachers in DIY and surrounding areas via mail, phone, fax, and SMS. Other ways to distribute information about the workshop program, we up loaded the information to Yogyakarta State University website and used newspaper advertising/publicity.

Workshop Material and Topics

For this workshop we used material and topics from National Council on Economic Education (NCEE) Introductory International Seminar for Indonesian Trainers. We made some adaptation and modification of the original lesson plan to make them more suitable to Indonesia environment and participants' (students) characteristics.

RESULT

Initially YEES would recruit 30 economics teachers from 5 regencies in Daerah Istimewa Yogyakarta (Bantul, Sleman, Yogyakarta, Kulon Progo, and Gunung Kidul). After we socialized workshop program in many events and discuss it to economics teachers, we consider to accommodate their suggestions. They suggested that YEES should invite more than 30 participants to get wider impact. Another thing was many economics teachers from Central Java Province asked YEES to let them to join to introductory workshop on economic education, since they already heard from other teachers who have participated in YEES previous programs that YEES conducted interesting training in economics instructional model used NCEE material.

Finally we decide to provide two parallel groups/classes Introductory Workshop on Economic Education. First class consist of 40 economics teachers, while second class consist of 42 economics teachers. As consequence of this change we must rearrange the budget. We shift transport cost for participants to other items. So, we do not provide transport cost to all participants. We reduced budget for presenters expenses and presenters transport cost & accommodation by reducing fee per session and did not invite presenter from other cities.

Introductory Workshop on Economic Education is an effective way to disseminate "creative and innovative" instructional model and methodology. Based on evaluation form from participants, we conclude that this workshop give significant benefit for all parties involved in this program. All participants give comment that instructional model and NCEE lesson plan that YEES introduce to them in that workshop are interesting, useful, and applicable.

Majority of participant stated that they will apply workshop subject/lesson to their class.

Two weeks after workshop some of the participants inform us that they have already applied lesson plan that they got from the workshop, and they said that their student were very happy and exciting. Second comment from evaluation form that YEES highlighted is most of the participants ask YEES to conduct other workshops with different topics.

Few days after the workshop, four different groups offered YEES to conduct workshop or training program. The first group is private organization in Bantul regency. This organization invited YEES presenters to deliver one day training for economics teacher in Bantul regency. This one day training conducted in 13 April 2008. Second group is local government of Kulon Progo. Kulon Progo local government provided grant to YEES to conduct 2 days workshop for Kulon Progo economics teachers. We plan to conduct this workshop in May 2008. Third offer came from Economics Teachers Association (economics MGMP) in Magelang Regency Central Java. Magelang Economics MGMP invited YEES presenters to deliver 2 days workshop for economics teachers in Magelang Central Java. This workshop will be conducted in June 2008. The fourth group is from business sector – PT. Grasindo. PT Grasindo is one of well-known publishers in Indonesia that publish references and text books for elementary, junior and senior high school. PT Grasindo will sponsor two of YEES presenters (Losina Purnastuti and Daru Wahyuni) to conduct some training for economics teacher in some cities in Indonesia, such as Bandung, Surabaya and Medan. Previously, PT Grasindo have became YEES sponsor several times in conducting training for economics teacher in Jakarta, Bandung, and Yogyakarta.
